A WORD FROM THE MAYOR

Under the High Patronage of His Serene Highness Prince Albert II of Monaco, after an April devoted to the sea and biodiversity conservation, our village is set to continue the celebrations marking its 120th anniversary in May, on the theme of Art and Culture, opening a window to the world and building bridges with others.

As part of our friendship pact with the millennia-old town of Byblos, we will be paying tribute to the Lebanese sculptor Alfred Basbous, on the centenary of his birth, with a monumental open-air exhibition of some of his works, famous for their elegant curves, while the municipal buildings will be hosting a series of temporary exhibitions of paintings and sculptures.

We will also be officially unveiling a permanent monumental statue, the only one of its kind in the world, representing a secret and complex marine creature dubbed the "Travellers' Jellyfish", a paean to poetry and protecting our sea.

Then, in keeping with our contemporary times and trends, we will be hosting the Pigment Festival, an original street art festival in the centre of the village, where a collective of talented artists will express their creative powers with monumental murals, following in the avant-garde footsteps of the visionary paragon Jean Cocteau, who left his own "tattoos" on the walls of the villa Santo Sospir.

BEAUTY AT OUR FEET

30 bronze sculptures recently showcased at National Natural History Museum will be presented at Espace Namouna.

A graduate of the Ecole Boulle college of fine art, François Chapelain-Midy (1937-2007) was a taxidermist and restorer, who also mounted mineral pieces and primitive artworks. He later worked as a set designer in the theatre, opera, and cinema. He also produced a magnificent collection of animal sculptures, chiefly comprising insects, whose mystery and form were a source of fascination to him. He transfigured into patinated bronze, giving them smooth, simple lines to soften their aggressive appearance. François Chapelain-Midy was a passionate defender of the environment and the animal kingdom.
